The prices went down as low as 50 cents a dezen for the fancy white eggs during the first part of the week and then up again to 53 cents. This rise in price was in spite of very heavy receipts, and is undoubtedly due largely to the withdrawal of eggs from sale by the merchants in order to create an artificial scarcity and keep up prices. "A comparison of prices in February, 1914, with prices of the last week on six of the principal perishable food commodities shows that potatoes, cabbage and carrots are lower, apples are a few cents higher a barrel, butter is about 18 cents higher a pound for best creamery grade and hennery white eggs are 18 cents higher a dozen.

"The receipts of domestic butter last week were heavier than during the week previous. The best creamery butter sold on Friday for 48 cents to 49 cents. That price was three cents higher than Mon-day's price and about 18 cents higher than the February, 1914, price, when than the February, 1914, price, when this grade of butter sold for 30 cepts a pound. The finest grade of State dairy butter sold on Friday for 44 cents to 46 cents a pound, which price was about 17 cents above the wholesale price on the corresponding day in 1914. A price comparison of other grades shows a similar difference, with 1914 prices in all cases lower than at present.

At the same time the Meat Council of New York issued a bulletin of "bargain prices" in all kinds of meats.

"Wholesale prices for farm products in the New York markets continued at very low levels in the last week." Commissioner Porter said. "Large receipts of fresh vegetables from the South more than met the slow demand. In many cases the farmers received little more than oncome the farmers of the continued at York to the residual and commission charges. Potatoes sold at 75 to 85 cents a bushel for the best onabity at the railroad yards, and Long Island potatoes in the wholesale market brought from $3.25 to $3.40 a bag of 165 pounds. The public is not eating as many potatoes as last year, in spite of the much lower prices.

Was Sickly as Child.

He regards himself as a living refutation of the assertion that a man must be born rusged to live long. He was a sickly child, and not robust as a young man, and when at the orthreak of the civil war he volunteered for service as a field surgeon he was refused appointment on account of his health. He was a chronic dyspeptic then and remained one till he was 50, when he discovered that "most men dig their graves with their knives and forks" and adopted a simple regimen of life to which he gives entire credit for the almost half century of perfect health he has had.

Dr. Smith is the oldest living graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons and was resident surgeon in Bellevue in 1350. For many years he was a member of the State Charifies Commission being reappointed to it by seven successive Governors after his first appointment at the close of the civil war.
